All candidates must wear formals at the convo in April.

Educator Cites American Plight

According to convocation speaker Dr. Bernard Iddings Bell, educational sociologist, Americans have "missed the boat" in their pursuit of happiness.

He outlined conditions in the world today, by stating that events are pointing to what he called "a third inning of the same world war."

The Winter Sports night is financed by the social activities fund and is open to all UMD students free of charge upon presentation of their activities card.

Council Grants Funds for Fete

The Student council granted a request for funds to the "M" club and the recreation class to sponsor Winter Sports Night at Fond du Lac Friday, Feb. 24.

The revised constitution of the Gamma Theta Phi fraternity was accepted by a majority vote. The non-discriminatory clause now reads: "Any male student, regardless of race, creed, or color who is enrolled in the University of Minnesota, Duluth branch, is eligible for membership."

Bill Diederich (Buckhorns)

suggested that the press be notified of the official title, UMD, to be used by the sports editors. The motion was passed.

The council voted that, in the case of vacancy in the number of members-at-large, the position shall be filled by a person elected on secret ballot by the council. The nominees are to be persons who have previously filed with the council.

Jim Newman's proposal of a freshman week of initiation was favorable to the council.

Al Chalupsky was appointed to look into the possibility of keeping the bookstore open until 4:15 in order to accommodate students who have 3:20 classes.

Latin America Is Topic For Talk

Mexico, Central America and Colombia will be the subjects of a colored slide illustrated talk by Thomas P. Hiltunen at the Gamma Theta Upsilon fraternity meeting at Tweed, Feb. 20 at 8 p. m.

Mr. Hiltunen, who is now attending UMD, will describe his travels by bus along the Pan American highway, and by boat around the uncompleted sections of the highway.

Activities Fee Allocation Warrants Consideration

During the next few months, the Student council will make inquiry into the distribution of the activities fee. Persons in charge of each allocation will be invited to tell the Student council how the money is used.

One or two appropriations will be studied each meeting.

The Student council will then make its recommendations to the fee distribution committee.

Very close consideration must be given to these items:

- The Feb. 10 STATESMAN revealed in its weekly poll that of the 190 students queried, 97 per cent said that students should have a choice in the allocation of the funds derived from student activities fees.

- The "Chronicle" receives from each $11 only 50 cents. This amounts to $1.50 a year to publish an annual which costs in the vicinity of from four to five dollars a book.

- The "post office boxes" receive 60 cents a year from each student or roughly over $1,000 yearly.

- The Student address book receives ten cents a quarter or approximately $500 a year.

- The Health service receives $2.50 a student a quarter. This totals in the vicinity of $13,000 a year.

In making its recommendations, the Student council should use the utmost care that a definite student benefit is derived from each allocation and that such a benefit is proportional to the amount allocated.

Custodian Wins Sweeping Victory

In our private contest to pick a "Sweetheart of the Staff", Mrs. Martha Ziegler won a sweeping victory. Keeping the STATESMAN office clean is a full-time job but "Mrs. Zee", as she is known to the staff, also has the job of custodian for all of Washburn.

"Mrs. Zee" is a favorite for her provincial German phrases, her wry sense of humor and her good-natured willingness to make the office habitable after our Tuesday evening make-up sessions.

Mrs. Ziegler

Sports Short

Winter sports night will be held next Friday evening. We still think that an all-day Snow day to be held on one of our mid-week winter holidays would work out better.

Next Wednesday which is Washington's birthday is another official holiday. If the snow celebration were held on that holiday, it would be possible to have a greater variety of events and a bigger attendance.

In one day we would be able to have winter sports events, a down-town parade and an all-school dance.

Maybe next year . . .

How's 'Bout the Coal Strike

Taft-Hartley Aired

By Don Ames

Despite a federal court injunction ordering them back to the pits, the United Mine Workers membership is steadfastly refusing to mine coal until they have signed a contract completely suitable to themselves.

The provisions of the Taft-Hartley law which affect the present coal situation are:

- The appointing by the President of a board of inquiry if he deems the existing or impending strike to be a danger to national health and welfare.

- When the President receives the report of the board, he may direct the Attorney General to seek an injunction in a Federal District Court.

- If the court deems that

History of Tweed Recalls Social Events of the Early 1900's

"Solid as a battleship" were the words caretaker Carl Anderson used in describing Tweed, for nine years a proud members of the campus.

Originally the home of J. B. Cotton, who, during his residence in Duluth was general solicitor for the Oliver Iron Mining Co., the impressive dwelling was purchased following his death in 1940 by the late G. P. Tweed, ardent student of art and collector of nation-wide reputation.

Mr. Tweed presented the building to the school, then Duluth State Teachers college, Jan. 29, 1941, to be used as a center for fine arts.

Constructed of concrete and brick on a steel frame, the Cotton home, as it was then called, was completed in 1908 at a cost of more than $200,000. The gala housewarming of that year and other social events during the residence of the Cotton's are remembered by many Duluthians today. Mrs. Cotton at present resides in New York City.

Today Tweed and its neighbor, Olcott, house the UMD Division of fine and applied arts, while the Division of air science and tactics occupies Tweed annex.

A Conducted Tour

Down the Styx on a Stone Slab

By H. H. Sartor

Sigmund Freud had an awful lot to say about dreams. He claimed they were the subconscious reflection of our secret desires and frustrations.

Personally, I don't put much stock in such talk, but I think dreams are interesting, nonetheless. I had a whopper the other night that I'd like to tell you about.

It seems I had sat up late reading Dante's "Inferno", and when at last I fell asleep I was visited by the shade of Eddie Guest.

"C'mon, bub," said Eddie, "you and me are gonna visit Hades."

The next thing I knew we were floating down the Styx on a large slab of stone. I was about to make a crack about Styx and stones, but Eddie hushed me. Silently, he conducted me through the infernal regions. We paused by a huge blast furnace where John L. Lewis was shoveling coal and muttering about the Taft-Hartley law. "It sure takes a heap o' heapin'," said Eddie.

A little further on we came upon Carrie Nation tending bar.

THE MAJESTIC STAIRCASE of Tweed has served social events for 42 years. —(Photo by Hall)

With a sour expression on her face, she was knocking the tops off the bottles with her hatchet and handing them to the damned souls.

I was looking around for Ingrid Bergman, or at least Rita Hayworth, when I noticed Vaughan Monroe riding a jack-ass and chasing a phantom horse with a piece of bamboo.

I was wondering what in Hades I'd see next when Eddie Guest summoned me to a jagged precipice. I peered cautiously over the edge, and there, in the crevice below me, were Provost Gibson and Dean King, very busily . . .

But enough of this reverie. I awoke disgusted. The dream hadn't even been in technicolor and I never did see Ingrid Bergman.

'Chronicle' Staff Clarifies Picture Requirements

Rudy Fadlovich, business manager of the "Chronicle" has reported that a great deal of uncertainty exists concerning the picture requirements set forth by the Chron business staff. Because of this uncertainty the following information is published to avoid confusion.

Summer session and two year graduates are eligible to have their pictures in the year book.

All graduation pictures must be submitted by March 1—no exceptions will be made.

Pictures must conform with specifications. These specifications can be obtained at the Chron office, room 112.

Dan'l Does It Again

Devilish Dan'l Cupid has been plying his trade at UMD. The target for his recently fired "love darts" has been the phy ed staff.

Miss Edith Peterson, phy ed instructor, has recently become engaged, and Lewis J. Rickert, athletic director, was married lately.

If one can put any stock in the age-old dicta that are handed down generation after generation, (such as "Love is blind as a bat", "What fools these Myrtles be", "Matrimony is merely matter-o-money", and so forth, ad infinitum), we can count on big smiles and generous grades.

the President concerning the current position of the disputing groups.

- The results of this election are certified with the Attorney General during the next five days.

the strike is a threat to national welfare, health, or safety, an injunction to stop the strike is ordered. This court order is subject to appeal by the Circuit Court of Appeals and the Supreme Court.

- If the no-strike order is disobeyed, as in the coal strike, the union may be cited as in contempt of court and is liable to fine.

- When such an order is issued, it is the legal duty of the disputing parties to attempt to settle their differences.

- Upon issuance of the order the President reconvenes the board of inquiry. At the end of a 60 day period (approximately ten days have passed to date) the board is to report to

Critic Lauds Second Orchestra Concert

By Peggy Hella
Last Tuesday, Feb. 14, the UMD orchestra presented its second annual concert to a responsive and appreciative audience in the UMD auditorium. Under the capable direction of Ralph Dale Miller, its music was interesting and enjoyable.

Its varied program included the well known "Midsummer Night's Dream Overture" by Felix Mendelssohn, "Berceuse" by the Finnish contemporary composer, Armas Jarnefelt, the delightful, "Oiseaux Tristes" by Maurice Ravel, and Beethoven's only violin concerto, "Concerto in D Major for Violin and Orchestra."

The violin soloist was James E. Smith whose playing received enthusiastic applause from the orchestra members and the audience. The Beethoven concerto vividly displayed Mr. Smith's mastery of technique, but his playing seemed to lack power and depth of feeling. Mr. Smith is also associate conductor of the orchestra.

Although the players were relaxed, they conveyed the suggestion that the music had been played many times before and this performance was merely an extra special rehearsal. As a result, the finer shades of expression and meaning were lost.

However, it is to be remembered that this 37-piece orchestra is made up of young musicians, many of whom have only recently graduated from high school. Considering this and also the fact that the music they played was unusually difficult, they are to be commended and encouraged in their musical efforts.

TROLL TACTS

UMD student opinion is about evenly divided on whether there should be registration for classes one or two weeks before final exams.

STATESMAN poll takers asked the following question: Which of these three weeks do you prefer for spring class registration? (a) Exam week (b) Week before exams (c) Two weeks before exams.

Of the 194 people sampled 47 per cent favored registering two weeks before exams. Forty-four per cent preferred the present one week before exam registration... Three per cent thought we should sign up for classes during examweek. Five per cent of those questioned had no opinion on the subject or had a split opinion.

Miss Lee

Marilyn Lee, sophomore, "Students are too busy with studying during exam week. Probably the week before exams would be the least inconvenient."

Johnson

Paul A. Johnson, two-year terminal sophomore, "The registration week should be held two weeks before the final exams. This would alleviate the last minute rushing during exams and would also enable students to attend all classes during the last week of school."

Smevoll

Roy E. Smevoll, pre-law sophomore, "I think spring class registration should be held two weeks before exams because it thus will not conflict with either the exams or the last minute cramming for the exams."

Americans 'Missed the Boat' For Happiness, Contends Bell

not," he said, as he tried to answer the question, "What's Wrong with the World?"

He dismissed the supposition that our problem is political in nature, by saying that examples have proved that changing rulers does not change the situation. "The people must be changed, not the rulers —A society gets the kind of government it wants—really wants," he declared.

To say our basic problem is our economic system is wrong, said Bell, because the ordinary man wants a good boss, but does not want to control things himself.

Our basic problem, according to Bell, is a moral one—people are searching for happiness and always coming up with the wrong answer.

He stated that Americans are gathering up wealth for wealth's sake, pursuing amusement and seeking power, all in a vain effort to be happy.

"A happy man never has to be amused," he remarked.

Americans leave the factors which Bell thinks can achieve happiness out of the situation. Craftsmanship is a lost American art, he said. He believes that Americans concentrate on quantity rather than quality. "It is the job of our educational system to make craftsmanship a part of our culture again."

A sure sign that spring is just around the corner can be seen daily at the YMCA as some UMD trackmen hold drills to get into shape for the coming cinder season. In charge of this early, pre-season conditioning is veteran distance man, Les Nummela who, along with Paul Johnson, has been running for more than a month.

Mány more men are needed for the track team, and any aspirants are asked by athletic director Lewis Rickert, to get in touch with Nummela, whose PO box number is 827. How about it, you former and future trackmen, let's get in shape to make a good showing in the conference race this spring!

City League vs. Bulldogs

Nummela

So some of the teams in the Senior City League could give the Bulldog basketball team a good run, eh? The local paper contained that a s t o u n d - i n g revelation last week. The persons responsible for this point of view should drop in on a preliminary game at the Armory sometime when the junior varsity is playing a leading team in the City League.

The "B" team has disposed of such formidable opposition as the Olders and Modern fives, the latter on Monday to the tune of 45-35. The Senior League may have packed teams, but they can't be compared to such quintets as the Bulldogs.

Baseball Postponed

Plans for a UMD entrant in the MIAC baseball race have been postponed a year. There will be no competition on the diamond this spring due to a lack of funds.

This lack of funds is deplorable, and can be traced to the small paid attendance at UMD home games. For example, when the Bulldogs played host to the St. John's quintet, only 27 reserved seat tickets were sold.

With this kind of support, how can UMD continue to field athletic teams? One begins to wonder what kind of team is needed to have the support of the people in Duluth.

IM Cage Tourney Opens

Several Strong Quintets Vie for Coveted Trophy

By Ken Olson

Checking the school sports calendar we see that the annual intramural elimination basketball tournament is just around the corner. Next week the starting gun will send eight to 12 teams into action for the coveted championship.

The outcome of this week's games will be used in deciding the fate of six teams with mediocre records, only four of which will be permitted to participate in the forth-coming frolic. The Tigers, Eagles, Rocks, Angels, Jacks and Jokers make up this group.

Already set for tourney play are Vesel's Weasels, four wins and no losses, and the Wolves with a three and one record.

A high-scoring Duluth team, the Trixters, are definitely in contention for top honors. They claim four wins and a loss and will be followed into the jamboree by Proctor, the second place team in the Wednesday league.

The Streaks and Hunters will represent the Tuesday division, and those giants from up Mesabi way, the East Rangers, along with the Demolays complete the roster of definite tournament teams.

The Rangers, who average six feet two and can boast the services of Scott Erickson, a mammoth center, can't be overlooked when speculating on possible winners. The Rangers have maintained a clean slate in league competition. By virtue of their impressive victories, the Demolays also seem capable of making a serious bid for the 1950 crown.

Rotvig's Set Pace In Coed IM Loop

Barb Rotvig's team remained on top of the girls' IM basketball league by edging out Ella Johnston's team in a close 19-14 game with Barb Rotvig scoring 16 points.

Doris Peterson's team dumped Dee Campbell's team, 29-5.

Mary Ellen Hannsen's squad won over the Miriam Murray-Joan Judeen team by 37-16. Captain Hannsen chalked up a total of 26 points.

Quintet Travels To Johnnies, Cobs

The Maroon and Gold take the floor tomorrow night at Collegeville against the cellar-dwelling St. John's quintet. UMD rates as favorite in this tilt, holding a previous decision over the Johnnies.

The Bulldogs wind up their road trip at Moorhead Monday night where they face the variable Concordia Cobbers. UMD smashed the Cobbers last Monday but Concordia can be tough on their small home floor.

UMD Cagers Trample Cobbers As Monson, Westerhaus Star

UMD regained winning form in the MIAC conference with a 75-53 win over Concordia. The Cobbers, hailed as a hot and cold team, looked better on paper with wins over St. Mary's, Macalester and Gustavus Adolphus. All three of these teams previously have defeated the Bulldogs.

Concordia zone and pressing defenses did little to stop Ed Westerhaus' spectacular drive-ins and Rudy Monson's pivot shots. Dick Lundquist potted his share of set shots to keep UMD well ahead.

Monson's 23 points as high-point man gave him a temporary lead in the MIAC scoring race.

NAIB News

Coach Joe Hutton's Hamline Pipers have accepted a bid to defend their NAIB crown. There will be one other entrant from Minnesota at this annual tourney.

A special play-off between the champions of the State college loop and the MIAC will be staged to determine the other entrant. In the event Hamline is atop the MIAC, as seems very likely, the second place squad will represent the conference in the playoff.

Hockey Team Bides Time Waiting for Final Tilts

The Bulldog hockey team is marking time while arrangements are being completed for the remaining contests. Only the home game with St. Thomas is actually on the docket for Feb. 25.

Both Macalester and Gustavus have games scheduled at Duluth. Whether they will be played or forfeited will be decided this week.

At this stage of the season, the locals sport a 3-1 record in conference play, with three contests remaining. Macalester and St. John's are undefeated, but the former has one tie game, while the latter has been knotted twice.
